

Paul Sevigny and A.R.E. Weapons

Blessedly immune to the sophomore slump, did somebody finally piss off the cool kids for good because what the hell happened? They're either composing a double-album (Rough Trade can only pray), that dude Paul's too busy DJing Brown Bunny parties or they're still searching for a non-replacement for that mysterious fourth non-member/presence who rode the horse into Page Six. But if all that's true and not just bullshit rumor, then that aforementioned double-album might actually be susceptible to a sophomore slump. Go figure. We want our Weapons now dammit!